(c) Government has decided to import one lakh tonnes of palmolein for distribution under Public Distribution System during the period July, 1989 to October, 1989 after considering the relevant aspects such as availability of indigenous edible oils and its eventual requirement, gap between demand and supply, festival demand from States/UTs etc.

Statement

News item which appeared in "the Times of India, New Delhi, July 13, 1989.

Govt. urged to stop import of palmolein.
By a Staff Reporter

NEW DELHI, July 12: The Vanaspati Manufacturers Association of India, has criticised the Government's decision to import one lakh tonnes of palmolein saying that it is unnecessary in view of ample oilseed stocks.

The association feels that the import is grossly in excess of even the requirement of the public distribution system going by the current offtake trends.

Moreover, the requirements of the PDS, can be satisfied by supplies from domestic production, for which the PDS prices should be aligned with the domestic cost of production.

Even if the government choses to maintain low prices in the PDS, the association says, subsidies on indigenous oils would be preferable to a drain on search foreign exchange resources.

THE MINISTER OF STATE IN THE DEPARTMENT OF RURAL DEVELOPMENT IN THE MINISTRY OF AGRICULTURE (SHRI JANARDHAN POOJARI): (a) and (b). DRDAs were established all over the country after 2nd October 1980, when IRDP was extended throughout the country.

The DRDAs are registered societies functioning under the administrative control of the State Governments. While service conditions of the DRDA staff vary from State to State, some service benefits like scooter/motorcycle advance and CPF are available to all DRDA employees.
